Summary

I am a Software Developer and Trainer. I do believe in skills over degree. There should not be any technology or programming language barrier. And to avoid, I always do focus on learning API development, UI/UX development, RelationalDB or Document DB, etc. rather than learning python, PHP, node.js, MongoDB, and Microsoft SQL Server. Do you get this? If you do then you won't any technology/programming new. You can simply adapt as per the need and won't face any technology/programming language barrier.
